President and Mrs. Wilson Hosts to Brilliant Company at White House.

LARGEST PARTY OF WINTER

The President and Mrs. Wilson werests last night at one of the largest receptions of the winter, entertaining members of the congressional circle as members of the winter, entertaining members of the congressional circle as their special guests. The reception was marked by several innovations, the first changes the incumbents of the White House have undertaken in the conduct of state hospitalities, they having here conduct the conduct of the winter of the ofore been governed by the procedure stablished by their predecessors. For many years a group of specially oncred guests have been invited to watch the White House reception from white and good brocade; Mrs. And iridecents squiins, and American williard K. Saukibury, a stumming gown of orange chiffion velvet diaped over the word of the control of the contr watch the White House reception from position in the blue room designated state dining room, where a buffet supper was served.

The Vice President and the members of the cabinet, usually ensconced behind the blue room line, were among those in the red room, where they remained until, with the arrival of additional guests, it became too crowded, when they betook themselves elsewhere. The Speaker, the President pro tem. of the Senate and many members of both houses, accompanied by the women of their families; Mr. Justice and Mrs. Van Devanter, Mr. Justice and Mrs. Van Devanter, Mr. Justice and Mrs. Brandeis and Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Day passed into the red room early in the reception.

With the removal of the heavily upholstered furmoval of the heavily upholstered furnishings of the early days of White House history and the installing of the modern furnishings after the remodeling of the White House during the Roosevelt administration, the old-time decorations which transformed the state apartments on levee night went out. A vase of flowers on either end of the mantels sufficed. Last night the mantels were banked with ferns and blooms, as were also the consols in the east room, and in the green room the white marble centertable had a huge basket filled with white roses and larkspur. The state dining room was equally resplendent with ferns and flowers, giving the house a gala appearance. The Marine Band, in its gorgeous full dress uniform, occupied its usual place in the north entrance hall and played a brilliant program throughout the evening.

As at the last White House reception, given in compliment to the judiciary about a month ago, there were no diplomats among the guests last night. The chief of staff of the army, and a few officers of the army and navy, including Dr. Cary T. Gravson and the other White House aids, in full dress uniform, relieved the monotony of the conventional evening dress worn by the majority of the guests.

Now Is the Time to Offer Your House For Sale!

Houses that have been occupied are outselling the new ones. Builders are complaining about the slow sale of new houses. The probable cause is the increased cost of construction, which necessarily means increased cost to the buyer. Buyers are becoming the buyer. Buyers are becoming wise and purchasing houses that have been built only a few years and saving large sums. As we don't build, we are headquarters for bargains in houses that have been occupied. Your house might suit our client. Give us the particulars at once.

STICK PIERCES BOY'S EYE.

Norris Flood, Five Years Old, Receives Dangerous Injury at Play.

While playing near his home, 1010 5th street northeast, yesterday afternoon. Norris Flood, five years old, fell and received a severe injury to an eye. He was playing with a pine stick, it is stated, and when he fell the stick pierced his right eye. The boy was unconscious when picked up by G. V. Black, driver of a team belonging to an oll company. Unable to remove the stick. Black hurried the wounded boy to Casualty Hospital and turned him your to the house surgeons. It was with some difficulty that the surgeons succeeded in removing the stick.

Dr. F. T. Chamberlin made a careful examination of the injury and found the eyeball had not been affected by the stick. It was said at the hospital this morning that the young patient had regained consciousness and that his condition was much improved. Norris is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Flood. His father is a distributer in the city post office. The child attended hie kindergarten at Blair School, where, it is stated, he was looked upon as being one of the brightest pupils.
